Sonja,

Thanks for the heads up. I have no way of knowing if any of those cases will actually require your presence. So far I have never had to call anyone from your office in but I will inform the court on those days there is a potential conflict. As of right now I think it would be easiest to leave you on call for those days and play it by ear and if you get called elsewhere and I need you it shouldn't be too difficult to get a continuance under those circumstances.

Thanks,

Max Bennett

Hi Max-

I wanted to let you know that I received the following summonses from you today (I was on vacation last week) and wanted to inform you of some possible date conflicts I may have:

1. Commonwealth v. [REDACTED] on Oct. 6, 2010 (also on call for Springfield District Court)
2. Commonwealth v. [REDACTED] on Oct. 12, 2010 (also on call for Springfield District Court)
3. Commonwealth v. [REDACTED] on Oct. 12, 2010 (also on call for Springfield District Court)
4. Commonwealth v. [REDACTED] on Oct. 19, 2010 (also on call for Springfield District Court and Westfield District Court)

In the past I have not been needed for ~95% of the Springfield cases on the date that the trials were scheduled, so the odds are that I will be available those days, but I cannot guarantee it at this point. As for the Westfield trial, we don't receive many summonses from there so I can't give a prediction of whether the case will go or not. Sorry for any inconveniences.

-Sonja
